

Congress Promises New Levies To Take Profits Out Of War

By FRANCIS M. Le MAY
WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senate Democratic leader Lucas said today that, although there may be no immediate tax action against profiteering, the American people can be assured "nobody is going to get rich at the expense of the G. I."

"We are going to take the profits out of war," the Illinois senator said.

Lucas made his statement as Democratic leaders prepared to ram through Congress a tax-boosting bill, probably near the $5,000,000,000 size President Truman proposed, and without an excess profits levy.

An immediate excess profits tax was not recommended by the president, Lucas said, in the interest of speeding the "first installment" tax hike to passage.

Bill Whipped In Shape
He predicted it will come later, with stiff rates on abnormal business profits. And he added: "If we get into a real war, we're going to have the most drastic taxes this country has even seen. This tax bill is just to get ready for the big one."

Meanwhile, the Senate Finance committee moved swiftly to put the tax bill in shape for quick congressional action.

In its first session behind closed doors, it formally junked the House-approved bill to cut by 1-10,000,000 the excise taxes on such things as furs, jewelry, cosmetics and movie tickets, and approved instead a $55,000,000 excise increase.

It voted:

A 10 per cent manufacturers excise on television sets, to collect $12,000,000.

A 10 per cent manufacturer's levy on home freezers, for another $2,000,000.

A boost in the slot machine tax from $100 to $150 a year for each machine in operation. The slot machine operators would kick $5,000,000 additional into the treasury.

Truman Proposals Wait
The committee is yet to act on Mr. Truman's major tax increasing proposals:

1. $3,000,000,000 additional on individual incomes. The president wants this increase effective October 1, to pick up $700,000,000 from a 1950 individual income, with the full force of the $2,000,000,000 additional burden becoming effective next year.

2. $1,500,000,000 additional by boosting corporation income rates. Mr. Truman proposed making this rate hike effective for all 1950 corporation income. Congress may balk here. Some lawmakers are suggesting that the tax be levied on corporation income effective October 1.

3. $500,000,000 from tax law loophole plugging, a withholding tax on corporation dividends, and levies on the investment income of life insurance companies. They already have been approved by the House.

Heaviest losses were in the western Upper Peninsula, particularly in the copper and iron areas. Biggest gains were in Wayne county and adjacent areas.

"A glance at the map shows," the governor said, "that the population loss occurs mainly in those counties which would be most directly affected by the building of a Mackinac Straits bridge. The bridge would open up a new trade route which would cross these Michigan areas from which people evidently are moving out."

Chicago Mechanic, 45, To Be Questioned In LaBranche Murder

CHICAGO — (AP) — Denying any guilt in the slaying of Menominee county farmer Emil Matyfees, a 45-year-old auto mechanic was on his way to Upper Michigan today for questioning in the crime.

George Milewski was arrested earlier this week when a Chicago auto dealer found a bloody blanket in the car he had purchased from him.

He agreed yesterday to go to Menominee to face authorities there.

Deputy sheriffs John Reinell and Clifford Melberg were on hand to take him to Michigan.

The deputies said Milewski formerly worked at LaBranche, Mich., near Menominee, and left there two weeks ago, the day after farmer Matyfees, 62, was found hacked to death with an ax.

Taxes To Trim Record Profits Made In 1950

Corporate Earnings Run Ahead Of 1948

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK — (AP) — American corporations are making money faster than ever before, but new war taxes may cut back the 1950 total to well below record size.

A compilation by the Associated Press of earnings of 450 corporations in virtually every field of business shows profits were 43 per cent higher in the second quarter of 1950 than in the same period last year.

The year 1948 stands as the record-breaker for corporate earnings, and 1949 was only slightly below. Thus the second quarter this year is running well ahead of the 1948 record.

Remarkable Recovery

Higher corporate taxes for defense needs plus an excess profits tax would cut back 1950 earnings considerably below the 1948 record. Earnings also would be held down by rationing and price fixing.

The 43 per cent jump in second quarter profits to $1,625,040,257 brought earnings of these 450 corporations for the first six months to $2,865,306,259. That is a gain of 24 per cent over the first six months of 1949.

There are three points to keep in mind when looking at the profits picture:

1. All this money was earned before the Korean war started.

2. It shows a remarkable recovery from the let-down earlier in the year during a period of strikes and price reductions.

3. The profits look bigger by comparison with the first half of 1949 when a recession was taking toll of the economy.

Costs Going Up

There are some who believe the second quarter may stand as high tide in the profit movement. Even though many corporations now are working at top speed as a result of the war, their increased sales may not produce higher profits because of greater taxes and higher costs.

The 1949 recession ran its course in about the first six months of the year, and profits started expanding in the latter half. They have been going up ever since despite frequent set-backs resulting from strikes, price cuts and termination of post-war building plans.

The mounted policemen rode their horses onto sidewalks. Fist fights broke out. Several injuries were reported and at least one window was smashed.

Two sign-waving demonstrators were removed from electric light poles by police and a fire department hook and ladder company.

The New York Labor Conference for Peace sponsored the forbidden rally. The marchers were to have heard speeches by left-wing Negro singer Paul Robeson and Dr. W. E. B. Dubois, chairman of the peace information center.

Hubbell Man Drowns In Big Huron River

MARQUETTE — (AP) — Willis Jeanotte, 27, of Hubbell, was drowned near the mouth of the Big Huron river in Powell township late yesterday afternoon, as he and a friend were attempting to row a 14-foot boat from Lake Superior into the river.

Coast Guards, state police and sheriff's officers have not yet recovered the body.

State police said Jeanotte and James LaPin, also of Hubbell, were about to change places in the boat when it overturned. LaPin swam ashore.

The two were members of a seven-man fishing party. The others were in another boat when the mishap occurred.

Rosie The Riveter Not Needed As Yet

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — It will be months before unskilled workers are in demand by the aircraft industry, spokesmen said today.

Thousands have been applying for jobs in recent weeks. The Aircraft Industries association, pointing out it takes time to get large-scale orders into production, declared that "skilled and semi-skilled workers in various fields are needed but it is not yet time to rehire Rosie the riveter."

New York Peace Marchers Riot

Police Battle 2,000 In Street Brawl

NEW YORK — (AP) — Two thousand left-wing "peace" marchers, banned from staging a Union Square rally, battled 1,000 police late yesterday in fist-fighting brawls that led to 13 arrests.

The demonstrators waited until the home-going rush hour to make their defiant move.

"We want peace—open up the square," the marchers chanted as they suddenly formed ranks among the throngs going home from work.

Swift Action Assured On Big U. S. Money Bill

Government Budget Near 35 Billion

By OLIVER W. De WOLF

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Senate picked up speed today as it turned to the last items in a $34,775,000,000 bill financing most government agencies for the year ending next June 30.

After nearly four weeks of speechmaking, the lawmakers arranged to meet an hour earlier than usual under a procedure which promised swift action on the remaining amendments to the big money bill.

Three hours of debate were set aside for two proposals designed to add $89,000,000 to the measure for health and shipping expenditures. It was agreed that each senator would be limited to five minutes speaking time on each subsequent amendment.

The agreement was reached late yesterday after the expected vote on a proposed 10 per cent across-the-board slash in non-defense-expenditures got sidetracked by a wave of speeches.

Most previous economy efforts had failed.

One $10,000,000 item for construction of a new Senate office building was trimmed out of the bill. But the Senate appropriated an additional $58,070,000 for the Marshall Plan, increased the point four program from $10,000,000 to the $26,900,000 asked by President Truman, and made several lesser boosts as well.

In advance of today's voting, the bill contained roughly $67,000,000 more in cash and contract

Rouge Plant Strike Called Off By Union

DETROIT — (AP) — Ford and the CIO United Auto Workers have settled their differences over a worker transfer dispute.

As a result the union withdrew a threat to call a strike Monday of 65,000 Rouge plant employees over the seniority rights of 650 men.

Ford announced last night that an agreement was reached on "substantially the same" offer as the company had first made. Transfers to Ford part depots were involved.

Carl Steilato, president of Ford Local 600, said the agreement satisfied the union.

House Set To Hand Broad War Powers To President Truman

By BARNEY LIVINGSTONE
WASHINGTON — (AP) — The House appeared set today to give President Truman powers to control virtually every phase of the nation's economic life.

As demands mounted for across-the-board controls to curb inflation and provide what's needed in the Korean war, the only question was the form the presidential powers would take.

An automatic device for invoking price-wage-rationing controls — timed to set them in motion whenever the cost of living reaches a certain point — is being worked out by the Senate banking committee. Government statisticians were called in to recommend a formula.

Grandville Citizens Aroused Over Tree, Fatal Traffic Hazard

GRAND RAPIDS — (AP) — Accused of contributing to the deaths of four persons in three years and serious injuries to at least 20 others, a massive, battered oak tree was the target of aroused Grandville citizens today.

Justice of the Peace John M. Westphal, who knows a thing or two about motorists and traffic hazards, took the lead in circulating a petition for the tree's removal.

If the suburban city park commission won't take the tree down, Westphal says, "a guardrail of planks mounted on springs should be constructed around it."

The big tree stands about three feet off the pavement at the end of a long curve near Grandville. Two men were killed and two others injured early yesterday when their auto hit it.

Seven Nations Block Russian Move To Get Red China Into UN

LAKE SUCCESS — (AP) — The solid opposition of seven nations today doomed Russia's latest move to seat Red China on the security council as part of a peace deal for Korea.

Six countries — Britain, France, Ecuador, Cuba, Norway and Nationalist China — followed the United States' lead yesterday in insisting that the council discuss the Korean question before considering admission of Communist China to the council, and that the two questions be treated separately.

American Chief Delegate Warren R. Austin led the fight to reject any "deals" for settlement of the Korean war. He declared the U. S. will never agree that the end of North Korean aggression depends on any other issue.

As the third day of debate began today on the procedural tangle, council delegates watched with particular interest to see what India would do.

The great Asiatic nation hasn't the power to alter the outcome, but her strategic position in the east gave added significance to whatever stand she takes when her delegate, Sir Benegal N. Rau, speaks today on the agenda proposed by Russian delegate, Jakob A. Malik, the council president for August.

The council is still tangled in debate over what it should discuss, and in what order. Some delegates hoped to get a vote on the question today.

Malik has insisted on the program he presented:

1. To consider seating the Chinese Communists.
2. To consider a "peaceful settlement" in Korea.

In demanding this agenda, he has denounced U. S. military action in Korea as an act of aggression.

The U. S. is pushing for consideration first of its previously submitted proposal denouncing North Korea's defiance of the U. N. and asking member nations to help localize the war.

One was a Republican-backed bill offered by Rep. Kunkel (R-Pa.). The other was an expanded administration bill rushed into the House yesterday by Chairman Spence (D-Ky.) of the House banking committee.

Both provided for stand-by authority to apply roll back controls over prices, wages and rationing as well as allocations and defense priorities. They differed on other matters, Kunkel's bill omitting Truman proposals for controls over credit and commodity trading.

The decisive test on the two opposing approaches was due before tonight, but with a final vote put over until tomorrow.

As the House met to perfect Mr. Truman's economic mobilization requests, there was fresh clamor for addition of an excess profits tax and new rent control authority.

It appeared improbable, however, that the House would tack them on the present bill. Leaders were opposed to additional tax or rent controls now, although sentiment for them cut across party lines.

Front Shrinks As Allies Fall Back 18 Miles

Communists Stopped By New Defense Line

(By The Associated Press)

TOKYO, Friday, Aug. 4 — (AP) — Allied troops, for the first time approaching but still inferior to the 10 division strength of the Red invaders, rolled forward for the showdown fight for South Korea today with big Pershing tanks.

Elements of two fresh American divisions — the First Marines and the Army's Second Infantry — joined three other American and five South Korean divisions along the shrinking front.

Surprise Thrust Made

Frontline predictions were the Marines and Second Infantry troops would be in battle by night. The lines, stretched from the general south coast area of Chinju northward along the winding banks of the Nakdong river. The allied troops had quietly withdrawn from former positions as much as 18 miles over a three-day period.

A daring U. S. 24th infantry battalion, on a reconnaissance sweep with five tanks, penetrated 22 miles behind the Communist lines near Chinju Thursday.

It discovered a big enemy buildup for the battle for the plains leading to Pusan, the jammed U. S. port 40 miles east of the front.

The task force then fought its way out of the enemy lines, with some losses, and rescued a regimental command post from destruction by guerrillas. The enemy marauders had filtered eastward in small numbers towards Pusan, port city 25 miles west of Pusan.

Documents Captured
Don Whitehead, Associated Press correspondent at the front, said the American foray proved the enemy lines could be breached by a hard-hitting tank force.

Whitehead said the battalion almost reached burning Chinju, penetrating rear elements of the Reds.

It was the deepest penetration made yet by an American force into the Red Lines and surprised the enemy in a roaring road battle.

The task force ran through

Potter Favors Strict Controls

Full Mobilization Of Home Front Advised

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Rep. Charles Potter, Michigan congressman who lost both legs in World War II, demands that Congress "show some guts" and pass strict economic controls immediately.

Potter, a Republican serving his first term, won a standing ovation from fellow members of the house of representatives when he made his forthright speech yesterday.

He said the country needs wage and price controls, an excess profits tax and universal military training.

"When the government of the United States takes 10 men or 10,000,000 men and asks them to put their own life in jeopardy," he declared, "we have no right to do other than to prepare for total mobilization."

In the midst of debate on the administration's economic control bill, Potter said:

"Food prices are going out of sight. The cost of living is fast reaching a state where it is causing immense hardship on small income groups. If this is allowed to continue, of course, there will be new wage demands."

Delta Draftees Called Monday

To Get Physicals; 69 More Due

Thirty-seven Delta county young men will start taking their pre-induction physical examinations at the army recruiting center on Ludington street.

They will be the first from the county to be called up for the physicals, said Miss Mary Wagner, clerk of the Delta county draft board.

In addition, the local board this week will send out notices to 69 more county young men, ordering them to report for their physical examinations on Monday, Aug. 21.

That will make a total of 106 called from the county for physicals by August.

From that number, the county will furnish 14 for actual induction into the service for September final induction total yesterday.

Draftees from several less populous Upper Peninsula counties have been going through the local induction center this week in a kind of "setting up process" to iron out any "bugs" that may be in the local arrangements.

Starting next week, the draftees will flow into the center in greater numbers.

Marquette Fishermen Rescued From Rock By Coast Guard Boat

MARQUETTE — (AP) — A crew from the Marquette coast guard station rescued a party of fishermen from barren Granite Rock and returned them to Marquette early this morning.

The group—Leo Doucette, owner of the fishing tug "Silver Cap," and three unidentified persons who had chartered his boat for the fishing trip—were marooned on the island since late Tuesday afternoon when the tug developed engine trouble during a stiff blow on Lake Superior.

Coast guards went to the island Tuesday night, but the fishing party declined to leave because some of Doucette's passengers had developed seasickness. The life-saving crew returned last night and towed the "Silver Cap" to Marquette.

Granite Rock, about eight miles north of Marquette, is the base for an automatic light. Its unused lighthouse provided shelter for the fishing party.

Marcel Nedeau Home Draws Attention At Stephenson

One of the most attractive homes in Menominee county is on the steep bank of the Little Cedar river in the village of Stephenson. It is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Nedeau. The grounds, so beautiful and admired, are the more interesting because the Nedeaus have made them what they are. When Mr. Nedeau told his friends he was going to build his home there they reacted with the equivalent of "You must be nuts!" It had been the city dump. A slab of concrete from an old creamery covered part of the site, which was also earlier the setting for Laycock's shingle mill, which left a reminder in an engine bed. The river bank was a litter and tangle and the stream itself, now so rocky clean and attractive was a catch-all that had everything from discarded baby carriages to abandoned Model T Fords. But that was 20 years ago. It's hard to believe, today, that it wasn't always orderly and slightly.

HAS DAUGHTER HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Nedeau of Stephenson are the parents of Mrs. Luther Krantz, South 12th street, Escanaba.

The fill and terracing with native stone hauled in a car trailer created the theater in which Marcel Nedeau set his stage. He ripped the bank of the stream, planted American and Chinese elms, balsams, cedars, spruces and a delight of delights, some of those feathery larches that we call tamaracs. The old mud hole in the river is gone now, the stream has been widened and cleared and the shiners, suckers and rock bass swim in aquarium-clean waters. There are posts along the bank to protect the trees from the ice that comes flooding down the stream in the spring. The Nedeaus have been at their joyous work of beautification for 23 years this month and the site that was described as "the worst place in town" when they bought it wouldn't recognize itself today.

The swail has been filled, the old cedar stumps blasted. There's still a gentle undulation in the

Abolition Of Sheriff Office To Be Proposed

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich.—Abolishment of the sheriff's department in the counties where there are active state police posts will be proposed for discussion and action at the annual meeting of District No. 10—which comprises the 15 Upper Peninsula counties—of the Michigan State Association of County Supervisors. Arrangements for the meeting, to be held Sept. 8-9 at the Northern Holiday club, in Marquette, are being made by Joseph J. Colantonio, of Iron Mountain, U. P. president.

Colantonio, a member of the Dickinson county board of supervisors and past-chairman, said many counties, where the state police are active, have proposed that the office of sheriff be abolished, at a saving to the taxpayers.

"There is little doubt but what there is duplication of effort in counties which have both the state police and sheriff's departments, and it has been proposed by a number of such counties that the supervisors consider the abolishment of the sheriff's office and, if the move is approved, to learn how to proceed," Mr. Colantonio said.

Teachers Study Conservation At Camp Munuscong

The conservation laboratory of Northern Michigan College of Education opened Monday at Munuscong camp at Pickford, with an enrollment of 16 students.

The laboratory is a joint project with the Michigan department of conservation and is intended to train both elementary and secondary teachers in the teaching of conservation.

Miss Helen Martin, research geologist of the Michigan department of conservation, was the speaker at the opening session. She took the class through the first two billion years of Michigan history, explaining the origin of rock forms and the accumulation of minerals which has made Michigan a great state.

Miss Nancy Ayer, assistant woman's editor of the Detroit Free Press, was a visitor at the camp Monday and Tuesday.

Building Permit Demand Lighter

Only 27 Issued Here Thus Far

Demand for building permits in Escanaba has been lighter thus far this year than in the past three years, records at the city clerk's office reveal.

Twenty-seven permits to build new dwellings have been issued this year and of that number 26 are under construction.

The latest this year was granted to Juel Lee of this city. He plans to build a new dwelling on Lake Shore drive, near the old South park.

Two Commercial Permits

The total for the first seven months of 1950 is only 55 per cent of the total permits issued in the record year 1947, when 49 permits to build were issued. Since that year the number of permits issued has declined, to 37 in 1948 and 29 in 1949.

In July this year the city issued permits to build seven houses and for two commercial projects. Of the latter, one was to Elmer Swanson for a new gas bulk plant on C. & N. W. property on North Ninth street and the other to Casimir Milkiewicz for construction of an addition to a grocery store at 306 Stephenson avenue.

Though the number of permits issued has been declining in the past four years, the number of new houses constructed has not decreased proportionately because in June, 1948, the city council ruled that building permits were valid only for 90 days. Previously a permit was valid for one year after issuance, and indefinitely once construction was started under the permit. Now permits are obtained only within the resident plans to build immediately.

Those Issued

Permits issued thus far this year, by month, are as follows: March—Donald H. McMillan, 17th avenue south in Goules addition; Karl L. Arntzen, 815 South 17th street.

April—Harold J. Frederickson, 403 South 23rd; Arnold Ottensman, 1229 North 16th street; Ralph Erickson, Old State road; Leo Boudreau, 414 South Sixth; Arthur J. DeGrand, 603 South 18th; Verne K. Neumann, Lake Shore drive, and Orville Hakes, 915 North 20th.

May—John Muehlhause, Lake Shore drive; Joseph P. Beveridge, 1212 North 19th; Jack Foster, 1004 South 10th; Felix V. Juska, 2100 15th avenue south; Herman Rawkinson, 2316 First avenue south; Myron Austad, NW corner 22nd and Third avenue south; and Robert E. Casey, 17th avenue south, in Goules addition.

June—Edward Barkow, 704 South 19th; Theodore Dart, 1208 North 18th street; Ed Mileski 1003 North 18th and Arthur DeGrand, 604 South 19th.

July—David C. Larsen, Old State road; W. J. Mulvaney, 900 South 15th; Henry J. Van Enkevort, 2100 block of South 12th avenue; John E. St. Martin, 1804 Tenth avenue south; Clarence Houshak, 1216 North 19th; A. Holchowist, 12th avenue south, west of golf course, and Russell Lee, 1522 South 13th street.

Little Glamor Wrapped Around Korean Warfare

By ROBERT C. RUARK

NEW YORK—We have seen a certain lack of enthusiasm for being drafted, lately. One headline says that at least a third of those called have not turned up to be chosen, in New York alone—and it is kind of understandable.

Korea is scarcely a garden spot, for a start. It is an irregular sort of war we have going there—where the good fellows look just like the bad fellows, and the Southern Koreans can't even distinguish themselves from the damyankee gooks by saying "you-all."

We have been fetched up, since the last hassel, on a diet of rockets and shankels, jets and atoms, push-bottoms and radar, and of a sudden we fight with World War I weapons, in a lot of mud and dust, against an enemy that is merely standing in for a more malignant force. We have the feeling of being opposed by substitutes, at whom we ain't really annoyed.

There is, unfortunately, no sexy angle to this fresh fight of ours. In previous times we have embarked on crusades if only to get out of the house, to slake our hungry thirst for sensation. The world was large, in previous wars, and nobody ever heard of Casablanca and Guadalcanal, Anzio and Eniwetok.

Now we know about the world. The younger brothers of the WW I lads are all caught up on furin real estate. They have also been indoctrinated by first-hand conversation and a spate of movies and books and plays, to a point where a war is less an adventure than a chore. A good soldier should be an angry soldier, and it is very difficult for a young man in Manhattan to become angry at a North Korean. North Koreans being something less than villainous to contemplate at far distances.

There is tremendous apathy about our new commitments among the reservists who have hung over from yesterday's scramble. The young veterans—and none of us are so old as to be past a recall—have embarked on careers and have founded families, after being interrupted by a depression and one great big war. We are understandably non-enthusiastic about de-moth balling the uniform again, and I don't see how you can blame us too hard. We are the boys who have seen Parree, and Yongdong can't compete with it.

There is a thing, too, about people who have been to war being sort of unwilling to strain their luck. I find that I, personally, have a great deal less enthusiasm for getting shot at, today, than I had 10 years ago. A gold stripe on a blue suit seems less important. You can call this selfishness, I suppose, but as of right now I do not yearn to be an admiral, or even a lieutenant commander. I have heard a bomb, mother, and there are no milk bars in Southern Korea.

Korea Ain't Sexy

The correspondence, so far, on the fighting in Korea, has been almost entirely devoid of any sort of travelogue glamour. It has sounded much more like a fist fight between two country cousins in a small and dusty community than a heroic conflict against an exciting backdrop. And a soldier, for sufficient impetus to spur him to speedy enlistment, needs some sort of promise of South Sea island, gay Parree, or chivalric sea fight. We must face the fact that Korea ain't very sexy, nor is the prospect of further hostilities in Formosa, Indo-China or Iran.

I dare say that if we were immediately faced with a full-scale war with Russia, with the big weapons being used and lots of bare-fang propaganda on the loose, you couldn't prevent the entire population from flooding the recruiting stations. But the wide heads say that here is your war—a long, dreary period of small actions, fought by puppets.

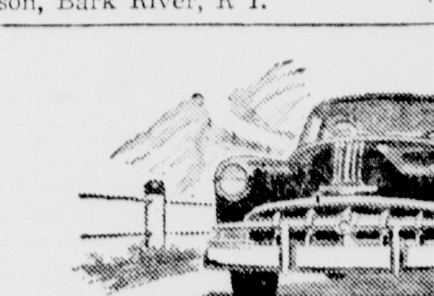

A reluctant war, apt to last years. A long delaying action, until somebody makes up his mind to separate the men from the boys with a big boom on somebody's capital city. A race with the Russians until they bust one on us or we dump one on them. It is a difficult war to popularize, because it lacks all the essentials of soldiers' pay—a basic, sentimental aim and a glamorous rear area full of excitement for the hero, with a definite, triumphant end in sight. This one is too fuzzy around the edges to be fun for the fighters.

Delta Red Cross Re-elects Moore

Other Officers Are Chosen At Meeting

Delta County chapter of American Red Cross has re-elected Clarence E. Moore of Escanaba chairman for the ensuing year.

Allan Mathison and George Ruwitch were elected first and second vice chairman, respectively. Carl Wickman was elected treasurer and Mrs. Ben Woodward, secretary.

The chapter also elected John Landon, Gust Asp, Dr. Vernon Johnson, Loren Jenkins and James T. Jones (of Gladstone) to serve on the 10-man executive committee. Officers are automatically members of the executive committee.

Those elected for three year terms on the board of directors were George Ruwitch, James Schram, Allan Mathison, Cpl. John Hanthorne of Gladstone, Robert LeMire, James Jackson, Mrs. John Anthony, Mrs. N. J. Frenn of Bark River, and Dave Phalen of Nahma. Henry Bathke and Mrs. Ben Woodward were elected directors for two years and Mrs. Oral Thompson of Cornwell was elected to fill a vacancy.

A resume of the 1950 fund drive, which netted approximately the same as the year before, but which fell short of the increased quota for Delta County, was given at the annual meeting. The drive has not been closed however and contributions are still being received.

New by-laws were read and accepted and reports on the chapter services were made. New service chairman will be appointed at the next Red Cross meeting. Other business included reports on last year's blood clinics and on the home services unit, in which the number of veterans and servicemen aided has increased from 256 to 570, since last September.

CLARENCE MOORE

Lindquist Visiting In Iron Mountain

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich.—Harry L. Lindquist, former Iron Mountain resident who graduated from school here in 1905, and who is now a prominent New York publisher, is here to renew old acquaintances, and to visit various communities in the Upper Peninsula.

Mr. Lindquist today saw the remnants of the Hulst school, which he attended in the early 1900s, and recalled many incidents of his boyhood there. "I am sorry to see the old Hulst reduced to salvage, but no doubt it's the trend of the times," he said.

The publisher plans to visit tomorrow in Marquette, and then to go on to Sault Ste. Marie.

Captain Gallagher Awarded Contract

Capt. B. J. Gallagher of Escanaba, last night was awarded the contract for repairing piling at the swingbridge, which was damaged this spring when struck by lake freighters, by Marinette city council for a bid of $9,345.

The council also purchased a combination snow loader and material loader from Barber-Greene company for $9,455. The loader will load nine yards of snow per minute.

The council adopted a recommendation of the fire committee to place Marinette firemen on a 72-hour week schedule of seven-man platoons, and ordered the street department to take charge of flushing sewers at a charge of $5 an hour for the first two hours and $2 for each additional hour. Previously two firemen were assigned to the task.

Tourists Comment On Absence Of Policemen On City Streets

THE filing system of the Escanaba police department is being revised along the lines approved by the FBI.

That's fine. It will provide more uniform and presumably more accurate reports and records.

Complete, accurate records are important in settling many matters, especially in accidents involving fatalities or insurance payments. They are valuable, too, in giving the newspaper complete information on police activities in which the public is interested and to which it is entitled.

Big Days Ahead For 4-H Boys And Girls Clubs

THESE are big days for 4-H club members of Delta county.

First, they gather at Camp Shaw at Chatham for their big week when they meet and exchange ideas and ideals.

Then Aug. 15 comes the Upper Peninsula State Fair. There they have plenty of chance to show off results of all the hard work they have done throughout the year.

Camp Shaw and the U. P. Fair are good incentives for encouraging farm youngsters to improve themselves.

The returns are good, too, because 4-H club members of today will form the backbone of the county's agriculture of tomorrow.

Daily Press To Present Articles On Alcoholism

ALCOHOLISM continues to grow as a serious American problem. No single community is without its examples of the suffering caused by the excessive drinking of intoxicating liquors.

The problem of alcoholism is being attacked on various fronts. The good work being done by Alcoholics Anonymous is recognized everywhere. One of the benefits of the AA's program has been the development of a more sympathetic attitude toward the victims' plight. Alcoholics are now receiving more kindly treatment from law enforcement authorities, hospitals and the general public.

There is a need for still greater public understanding of the problem of alcoholism, however. With this thought in mind, the Escanaba Daily Press has acquired the publication rights to a series of articles on this important subject.

The articles were written by an alcoholic who was successful in straightening himself out of his predicament. They present the situation from the viewpoint of the individual and the public. The articles are not a part of a crusade for the return of prohibition, which was tried once and found lacking. They are intended to more fully acquaint the public with the problems of alcoholism with a view toward encouraging the taking of effective remedial measures.

Confusion

In election years the votin' folks are often quite confused, as they listen to the type of campaign oratory used. There is first of all the candidate who gilds himself with praise, and he boasts that his election means a lot of happy days. But he's followed by the critic who declares the man is dumb, and the peepul would be silly to elect that no-good bum.

"Look what I have done," one man declares, "the record speaks for me—I have been your honest servant, as you folks can plainly see. I have saved you many shekels, yet I've kept you out in front, and because of me, you're not without a single thing you want." But next night upon the same old stand, another fellow speaks, and he says the time has come to ditch political antiques.

"He has spent your hard-earned money," says the second candidate, "and he's just a public nuisance that the voters should abate. He's a greedy louse and from his rule, the peepul should be free, and the record shows the citizens should surely vote for me." So the voter homeward trudges and he finds himself confused, by the sound and all the fury of the oratory used.

WASHINGTON—It is important that the American public know the rules of news censorship laid down by General MacArthur for covering the Korean war.

Theoretically, there is no censorship, since newsmen are not required to show their dispatches to army officers. However, General MacArthur has issued a definite directive to newsmen which is highly important and which, as reported by the Columbia Broadcasting System, states that "criticism of command decisions or the conduct of Allied soldiers on the battlefield will not be tolerated."

Also significant is the fact that this new directive was issued one day after Homer Bigart of the New York Herald Tribune cabled a dispatch analyzing the conduct of U. S. troops, reporting that they were untrained, and that top officers had to remain with them when under fire to keep them from breaking. Bigart reported that this was the reason why there were such heavy casualties among officers.

The fact is that MacArthur had the largest segment of the U. S. army under him in Japan, and failure to train troops is, of course, a direct reflection on him and his chief commander, Lieut. Gen. Walton Walker.

ARMY ONCE WELCOMED CRITICISM

The new MacArthur directive barring newspaper criticism is in direct contradiction to the censorship rules laid down for newsmen in this country during World War II. At that time both the army and navy agreed that criticism was healthy, important, in fact, necessary. It is also in violation of Woodrow Wilson's famous statement in World War I: "We do not need less criticism, but more. It is hoped that criticism will be constructive, but better unfair criticism than autocratic repression."

Perhaps if there had been more newspaper scrutiny and criticism of the entire defense setup, including tanks and our easy training schedule for American troops in Japan, things might now be better in Korea.

Criticism of the U. S. military in Japan, however, has always been difficult. MacArthur just did not tolerate it. While he had no censorship rules as such, he made life difficult for the newsmen who tried to report the full story of the Japanese occupation.

For instance, here is a secret cable sent by MacArthur to Washington in 1946 in which he proposed barring certain newspapers. While few would disagree with MacArthur about barring the Daily Worker, it is hard to understand his reason for barring such staid newspapers as the New York Herald Tribune, the San Francisco Chronicle and the Christian Science Monitor. Nevertheless his cable read:

"Cinecopia, Tokyo.—While continuing my doubts as to the advisability of the contemplated trip, in view of the insistence of the war department, I will withdraw my objection. I would like to have an opportunity to pass upon those contemplated for selection before their invitation is accomplished. I believe the list should not include actual writers but should be limited to publishers and editors and should not include those connected with papers of known hostility to the occupation. Such papers are the Christian Science Monitor, Herald Tribune, Chicago Sun, San Francisco Chronicle, PM, Daily Worker and others of this stamp whose articles and editorials have not only been slanted but have approached downright quackery and dishonesty. Signed, MacArthur."

This policy of ousting independent newsmen continued right up to the Korean crisis. As late as June 12, London Times correspondent Frank Hawley was ordered out of Japan merely because he reported what was a well-established fact—namely, that a MacArthur-inspired ban on Japanese demonstrations was unconstitutional.

PRONUNCIATION CLINIC

Baltimore: We are a group of student nurses. We'd like to have you put the word syringe through your Pronunciation Clinic. We are told to accent the first syllable; but both doctors and nurses accent the second syllable. Which is correct?—L. M. B.

A. According to the older dictionaries, the accent falls on the first syllable which rhymes with fear, thus: SEAR-inge (-inge as in hinge, tinge).

However, SEAR-inge appears to be obsolete in Standard American speech. I hear nurses, doctors, druggists, etc., say: si-RINGE, and I feel sure that si-RINGE is customary among people generally.

Moreover, si-RINGE has excellent dictionary support: it is now listed as the alternate pronunciation by Webster's New Collegiate (1949), The American College Dictionary (1949), the Thorndike Century, and is the only choice of Grosset and Dunlap's Words: The New Dictionary.

So, si-RINGE is neither slovenly nor improper. In the opinion of this column si-RINGE has become the Standard American pronunciation, and I so recommend it. The word syringe is from the Greek syringos, "a shepherd's pipe; a pipe or tube."

Q: How would you pronounce the name Eniwetok?—H. T.

A. The Pacific atoll, now used as a permanent testing ground for atomic weapons, has the Standard American pronunciation: EN-uh-WEED-tock.

Los Angeles: We are a little confused as to the exact meaning of the term "huckster." Will you please explain?—J. W. M.

Answer: Generally speaking, a huckster is a hawker or peddler of small wares, usually one who calls attention by ringing a bell or crying out in the street. By extension, huckster is often used to designate a merchant and sells inferior goods by means of misleading or dishonest methods such as fraudulent advertising.

SUICIDE STUNTS—Here are some of the dangerous things which pedestrians keep on doing—frequently to their sorrow. Top left, failure to walk facing oncoming traffic is a fertile source of mishaps on the open highway. Upper right, walking around the rear of a bus, or from behind a parked car, and into traffic, causes thousands of serious accidents each year. Lower left, the pedestrian who walks on street or highway at night wearing dark clothes heightens an already dangerous procedure, as this picture shows. Lower right, jaywalking at busy intersections. (National Safety Council Photos)

Just Why Do Pedestrians Seem So Intent Upon Committing Suicide?

By WILLIAM ULLMAN

It may sound cynical but no one has ever been able to deliver a more complete explanation of why pedestrians will take unnecessary chances in traffic than that they are intent upon not being late for the time-killing all humans seemingly have to do. But, universally, pedestrians continue to take their lives in their hands in an effort to save a split second in which they could hardly do anything that would alter the course of history.

The thought arises whenever one sees this wholly indefensible disregard of personal safety as well as the rights of others. A man or a woman (guilt seems evenly divided) dashes from behind a parked car or against a traffic light and is mowed down. Sometimes the victim is only injured but often enough he pays with his life. A policeman eventually files his routine report, "Killed by an automobile while crossing Main street." One wonders if he is not often tempted to add "Also committed suicide."

Careless Pedestrians

There is little question that one of the most distressing problems drivers of motor vehicles have to deal with is the carelessness of many pedestrians. Last year more than 33,000 persons met death in traffic accidents in this country, while 11,800, or more than one-third of those deaths, were pedestrians who, to a very great extent, were killed because of their lack of care and caution. And, in addition, there were 250,000 pedestrians hurt in accidents involved with motor vehicles.

While there is no intention to shield in the slightest way the murderous performance of many irresponsible drivers and their apparent disregard for human safety, it will not be amiss to point out some of the things pedestrians should do to safeguard their own lives. Many of them, for example, seem almost to be courting death when they start to cross a street or begin walking on a highway. This is indicated by the fact that of every one hundred pedestrians killed by motor vehicles last year, 63 were struck down while crossing streets and fifteen more met death while walking on roads.

One of the most dangerous things anyone can do is to cross a busy street between intersections. But carelessness takes a heavy toll of human lives at street crossings, too. Proof of this is shown in the fact that in all American cities of ten thousand population or more, forty percent of the pedestrian deaths came at street intersections.

Darkness, of course, has much to do with the surprisingly large number of pedestrian fatalities. Three out of every five deaths of this type last year came under cover of darkness. It should be remembered always that on poorly lighted streets or dark roads, danger rides with every car and walks with every person who has ventured forth afoot. Those who walk on highways at any time of day or night, should always travel facing the traffic, never with it.

In one State it was found recently in actual tests that many more people were killed walking with traffic than against it, which gave rise to this unique observation: "When you're walking down the road, the left side is the right side and the right side is the suicide."

Many Children Killed

One of the most distressing phases of this whole situation is the growing number of children killed or injured while playing in the streets or who dart out from behind parked cars.

There is indeed a great responsibility resting on pedestrians, for they are being killed at the rate of nearly one thousand a month. They take death by the hand when they heedlessly hurry across a busy street or walk carelessly down a darkened road.

Science has found that even those who should make the smartest pedestrians are dismally careless in many fundamental respects. Almost invariably, for instance, the walker will measure the hazard of an approaching automobile by the distance between himself and the vehicle. That is wrong. The real criterion is speed.

Even when he has discovered that fundamental truth, the pedestrian goes on being careless, in that he shows himself to be hideously inexact when it comes to estimating speed correctly. Go out and try it for yourself some time. Stand on a street corner with your watch in your hand and check the accuracy of your estimate as to how long it will take an approaching car to reach the intersection. You probably will be surprised. Astounded, maybe.

Safety officials have used this test. Taking groups of three or four persons, they have asked the latter to guess how long it will take an approaching vehicle to pass the spot where the group is standing.

"Ten seconds," the pedestrians have said in their merrily mad way of estimating such things. And when the car skips by in just five seconds, it is apparent why that group of pedestrians would have looked extremely careless to the driver of the passing vehicle had they walked across the street instead of merely standing there guessing how fast the automobile was moving.

That happens. Skeptics can go out and try it for themselves. It means an error of 50 percent in judgment, a figure that should prove highly illuminating to the person who has wondered why pedestrians are like that.

Misjudge Speed

The pedestrian is almost as bad, sometimes worse, in estimating his own speed. Ask him how long it will take to cross a given street and his answer, checked with a stop-watch, is likely to be an astounding misjudgment.

Let us say the street in question is 60 feet wide. The walker is likely to tell you that he can be across and safely on the other side in eight seconds. Can he? Well, walking at the rate of an infantryman, at the end of eight seconds he will have covered only 32 feet. He may walk faster, of course, under the circumstances, but the usual pace of the alert walker is approximately four feet per second. That would put the individual who thought he could be safely across the street in eight seconds somewhere about in the middle of passing traffic. It not only would put him there, it so often does. And that explains why he is involved in so many accidents.

Even better than estimating one's own speed in crossing a street, as a means of testing judgment, let the interested pedestrian stand on a corner and calculate the pace of someone else; just anyone who happens to be passing at the moment.

The chances are that he has over-estimated the speed of those who walk (including himself) as seriously, as he has under-estimated the speed of an approaching car in the other check. The judgments so grossly out of line with the facts cannot fail to substantiate the charge that the pedestrian is careless—and, correlatively, a menace to himself and others.

The careless pedestrian finds it necessary to get by on the generosity, selfishness and intelligence of others. If he happens to encounter a motorist who is neither generous nor intelligent, the chances of injury or death rise alarmingly.

As an incorrigible individualist, the pedestrian undoubtedly is inferior to the motorist in his traffic conduct. The latter has learned, through sheer necessity, a kind of class consciousness which makes for conformity to the movement of the group to which he belongs. Not so the wayward pedestrian. He will walk where he pleases, when he pleases, regardless of what the rest of his fellows are doing.

It has been discovered, for instance, that on the rural highway it is far safer to walk against traffic. It has been discovered, that is, by all save a large class of walkers. They either do not know it or, knowing, neglect to do it even in those areas where State laws specify such conduct and signs warn of the unwisdom of doing otherwise.

Traffic Lights Disregarded

With reference to disobedience of traffic signal lights the individual who, as a motorist, would not think of running the red light is perfectly willing to ignore it as a pedestrian. He is an entirely different person, no better nor wiser than the walker whose conduct he will denounce when driving through the same intersection.

A favorite illustration of the point involves a seemingly intelligent person who remarked, when driving, that fewer pedestrians would be hurt if they realized that the motorist going through a signal-controlled intersection kept his eye on the traffic light and consequently could not keep it on the pedestrian who might stray away from the curb. It was a judgment based upon experience.

However, the author of the judgment, after parking his car, a few minutes later walked against a red light with apparently complete confidence that his presence was 100 per cent evident to every motorist with whose progress he interfered. It was a case of a night motorist transmuting almost instantly into a careless pedestrian.

The pedestrian who is loudest in his criticism of drivers for their non-attention to conditions around them probably would be surprised to learn that absent-mindedness (indifference to conditions) on the part of pedestrians is a factor in five out of every six pedestrian accidents. Those are the figures developed in a pedestrian mishap survey.

Try Small College

Dear Editor:

My heart goes out to the poor unfortunate soul who is having his summer vacation spoiled by tales of the advantages of a small college. I realize that quite a rest is required before returning to the hustle and bustle of a large educational factory laughingly called a university by modern educators.

I have attended both a large university and a small college and will have to agree that a university does have more instructors, so-called high class sports, ad infinitum. However, I would like to know just how benefit is derived from attending lectures where the enrollment sometimes exceeds 150. True you are able to hear the straight dope from the lips of a "walking encyclopedia" but where do you go to get questions answered? Probably to some joker studying for his M.S., who doesn't know much more about the topic than the confused student. It is all well and good to read the long list of Ph.D.'s in the front of the catalog but what good are they if they remain in their office or lab, keeping their knowledge a deep dark secret?

My suggestion to our confused friend is: Try a small college once. Maybe you will find the advice of your friends is much better than you think. After all, they say ignorance is bliss.

A Small College Man.

By CLINT DUNATHAN

BERRY PICKIN'—It is summertime and wild berries are ripening fast in woods and on the pine plains across the Upper Peninsula.

Berry pickin' calls to young and old alike, and many family weekends are spent on an outing that includes a picnic lunch—with baskets filled with berries for the return trip. There is a satisfaction in berry picking that cannot be measured by the accumulated quarts of fruit.

One of the "berry-pickin' families" I know are the Walter Hansons, who are spending the summer in their trailer at a U. S. Forest Service park near M-94 in Hiawatha National Forest.

Walter, now retired from the Coast Guard, was officer in charge of Minneapolis Shosh lighthouse. He combines berry picking with fishing, an ideal summer combination. Last winter the Hansons toured the South and West with their trailer.

Now they are "home" again for the summer, accompanied by their youngest son, Norman, who graduated last spring from University of New Mexico and will teach after vacation at the University of Kansas.

THROUGH THE SEASON—Habitual berry pickers, Walter and his wife, Inga, begin in the spring with the wild strawberries. These are followed by blueberries, raspberries and blackberries. The latter are fully ripe about Labor Day.

They do not halt then, however, for in past years they have picked wild cranberries in late autumn—plump bubbles of tart flavor and bright color that grow wild in hidden marshes. The cranberries go well with the roast of venison that Walter is sure to produce during the November hunting season.

PURE ENJOYMENT—The confirmed berry picker will grow enthusiastic over the enjoyment to be found in picking wild berries.

Strawberries are little nuggets of exquisite flavor, bright red against the dark green of the leaves. Raspberries, although they are most often found in tangled hardwood cut-over lands, have an aroma that compensates for the labor of picking them—although they do "squash down" in the pan.

Blueberries, of course, are firm purple globules of fresh flavor that stand up well when eaten fresh or cooked into delectable pies or muffins. And blackberries deserve a special word of praise, not only for the comparative ease of picking but for other admirable qualities they possess when served with cream and sugar, in a pie, or the down part of an upside down cake.

No list would be complete without tribute to rarer and perhaps more exotic wild berries of Northern Michigan: The black raspberry and the thimble berry, the latter far more tasty in jam or jelly than its name would indicate.

AND THE PESTS—Berry pickers have something besides unalloyed enjoyment in the out-of-doors, although they may forget from one season to the next.

Mosquitoes, black flies and ants will turn a berry picking trip into a nightmare for the pickers who have sensitive hides. And some of those mosquitoes are of unusual proportions, according to Rufus Spaulding of Kates Bay. Commenting on the size of the mosquitoes prevalent last spring, Spaulding said:

"One of the mosquitoes was so big it was fighting a robin—and the robin was getting the worst of it!"

THE PLEASURE AHEAD—While summertime berry picking is a mixture of pleasure and pests, the coming winter will bring unalloyed enjoyment in eating the berries.

Out of the freezer, the cans and jars will come fruit nearly fresh in flavor, or concentrated in jams and jellies. And combined with the good flavor will be the recollections of sun and rain, of the colors, the sights and smells and sounds of abundant summertime.

Railroad Appeals Court Decision In 'Sandwich Case'

CRIVITZ, Wis.—The Milwaukee road has appealed to the state supreme court a decision in which a jury awarded damages of $3,000 to Carl Hotzel, a bridge worker, of Crivitz, for false arrest and imprisonment.

Hotzel bought a ticket Oct. 26, 1947, for a Milwaukee road train from Crivitz to Iron Mountain, Mich. Before reaching Pembine, testimony revealed, he became involved in an argument with Leo Simmons, dining car steward. Hotzel claimed he ordered a sandwich, but was brought a full meal instead, and that he refused to pay for it.

A fight followed, and Conductor Edward Schmitz arrested Hotzel, using his power of sheriff under state statutes. Hotzel was kept on the train until it reached Iron Mountain and he was then turned over to police in Iron Mountain, where he was charged with assault. A jury found that Hotzel had not provoked the attack and Simmons was not awarded damages. Subsequently, Hotzel sued Simmons, Schmitz and the Milwaukee road for false arrest and was awarded $3,000 compensatory damages.

Circuit Judge Arold F. Murphy in a memorandum decision said that Schmitz erred in not putting Hotzel off the train at Pembine since the offense, all admitted, occurred before the train reached that point. The court further stated that Schmitz's action in causing Hotzel's imprisonment in Iron Mountain was invalid and unlawful as a matter of law because the offense took place in Wisconsin and not in Michigan.

Police Bullet Ends Life Of Mental Case In Detroit Gunfight

DETROIT—(AP)—A police bullet ended the tragic life of Ivo Gonan, 38, in a backyard siege last night.

Since his childhood, police said, Gonan had been mentally ill. There was always hope, however, that he would not become violent.

But yesterday he terrorized his parents by shooting up their suburban Allen Park home. He drove his father out of the house.

Efforts to pacify him were fruitless. Police were called.

They trained spotlights on a chicken coop behind which Gonan had hidden. For half an hour there was sporadic firing.

With a 50-year-old souvenir rifle, Gonan tried to hold off ten policemen.

Then he was struck by an officer's shot. It went through his heart.

County Clerks Dine Tonight

Final Sessions On This Afternoon

The Michigan Association of County Clerks in convention here will hold their annual banquet tonight at the House of Ludington following final business sessions this afternoon.

At the business session this afternoon the association will elect officers for the ensuing year and hear reports of standing committees. The business sessions are being held in the court house.

The convention will end tomorrow morning after hearing final reports of committees. More than 60 clerks from Michigan's 83 counties are attending the convention.

State Treasurer D. Hale Brake was present at business sessions of the association yesterday afternoon and today. He is particularly interested in the Institute for Local Government and in efficient operation of a strong county government.

William J. Leppien of Saginaw, association president, presides at the meetings.

Today the county clerks discussed the keeping of vital statistics records with Miss Grace Pienta, chief of the vital statistics division of the state health department.

Leppien suggested that changes should be made in the marriage license application forms supplied to the county clerks. Prospective brides and bridegrooms should be asked to answer whether they have ever been confined to a mental institution and if they have been restored to sound mind. The subject of mental fitness for those approaching marriage is of great importance, Leppien declared.

He also suggested that before any changes are made in the forms of records the state should consult with a committee of the county clerks association.

Whippings Suggested For War Profiteers

WASHINGTON D. C.—(AP)—The whipping post for wartime profiteers is suggested by Michigan's Congressman Clare Hoffman.

To the House yesterday Hoffman said: "It is true that in this, as in every other age and land, there are some human jackals who would feed on the sufferings of their fellowman. A few profiteers thrown in jail, or, in wartime, publicly whipped, would stop that traitorous activity."

Hoffman, a Republican, made his remarks in opposing the administration's economic control bill. He said it gave the president "arbitrary and unlimited power."

He said that the nation's workers, farmers, businessmen and industrialists would support the fighting forces without such controls.

Will Dedicate Wells Air Park

Ralph Field Memorial To Former Supervisor

The Allen A. Wells Air Park near Ralph will be dedicated Sunday, August 6 in ceremonies at 3 p. m., with Mario Fontana of Iron Mountain as program chairman.

The new airport a mile southeast of Ralph will be dedicated to the late Allen A. Wells, West Branch township county board representative for over a quarter of a century and former dean of county supervisors.

A memorial plaque bearing the park's name and purpose will be attached to a large stone on the edge of the landing strip. In early years, the late Allen Wells urged development of air landing strips in Dickinson county and worked hard in the interests of aviation.

The Ralph landing strip was built with township and state money at a cost of $5,000. It lies on a direct line between Marquette and Iron Mountain, and will be used as an emergency landing field and by conservation patrols.

Robert Stevens, Dickinson county road commissioner will serve as master of ceremonies and L. D. Randall, editor of the Norway Current will be the speaker.

There will be no air show in connection with the dedication but many pilots from neighboring communities are expected to fly their planes to the field.

The committee in charge is comprised of Fontana, Stevens, Pat Schoeman, chairman of the county board; Mrs. Jane Dahlstrom, who succeeded Allen Wells as West Branch supervisor, and Jack Wahlstrom, president of the Dickinson county Pilots' Association.

Front Line Gets Shorter In Korea; Showdown Near

machinegun fire all the way out but brought back captured enemy documents, maps and Russian-made equipment. The loot was considered important by intelligence. Whitehead reported.

Four Sherman tanks and four armored cars were abandoned by the Americans as they withdrew to road positions four miles southwest of Chunnam, about 40 miles west of Pusan.

The Americans pulled out after the Reds had got behind them and cut off the tanks. The Reds stopped the first tank and the last one with immobilizing tactics. The tank crews and most of the armored crews escaped.

Foray Well Timed

The Americans then fanned out to the north and south and fought back to the main U. S. defensive position near Wonsung village, about 10 miles northeast of Chinnju.

Associated Press correspondent O. H. King quoted Maj. Gen. John E. Church, new 24th division commander, as saying the daring tank foray was "well timed."

Left Erickson, Associated Press correspondent at U. S. Eighth Army headquarters in Korea, said the big withdrawal of allied troops in the west and north put the defenders on a line of their choice, the Nakdong river.

The fall back, he said, disengaged hard-pressed American forces while the newly arrived second infantry division and elements of the first marine division were being deployed. The new arrivals in the battle sectors have the heaviest arms yet to be brought into combat on the allied side.

On Equal Terms

On the new consolidated front the Americans and South Koreans face the Communists on virtually equal terms in division strength. There were five American divisions and five South Korean divisions facing an estimated nine to 10 North Korean divisions.

Erickson said, however, the United Nations still lacked enough power to embark on any real counter-offensive. He said there would soon be more carrier-based planes to help break up the long supply lines the Communists now must maintain.

The correspondent said the allied withdrawals were skillful. They conserved manpower and denied the Communists an opportunity to attack during the critical time when the reinforcing second infantry and first marine division elements moved up.

These reinforcements arrived in the nick of time while a dangerous fight was going on along the perimeter around crowded Pusan.

Banned News Dealer Sues City Of Detroit

DETROIT—(AP)—Isadore (Izzy) Berenson, a seller of the Communist Daily Worker whose newsstand was ordered off the streets as a "public nuisance," is suing the city for damages.

He filed the suit in federal court yesterday, alleging his constitutional rights were violated and demanding an injunction against the city. Judge Theodore Levin set a hearing for next Monday.

Police carted off Berenson's newsstand July 28 after the city council declared it a nuisance.

Berenson charges his right to freedom of speech was infringed. He also says he was deprived of property without due process of law.

He leaves it to the court to assess the damages, if any.

Bank Bandit Charters Plane In Escape From Sioux City, Ia.

BRONSON, Ia.—(AP)—A bank robber who calmly waited on customers during his holdup operation was sought in South Dakota today after he chartered a plane for part of his escape.

The Bronson office of the Morningstar bank at Sioux City was robbed of $870 by an armed man who accosted bank manager Ollie G. Smith yesterday afternoon.

Hours later the trail of the daring bandit ended at Elk Point, S. D. Authorities say he used a car and a chartered plane in his flight.

Smith said the bandit pulled a gun and tied him to a chair in the back room.

When two customers came the robber coolly cashed checks for them, Smith related.

House Takes Up Bill For Drafting Doctors

WASHINGTON — (AP)—A bill looking toward the possible drafting of doctors was introduced in the House yesterday.

Sponsored by Rep. Saylor (R-Pa.), the measure would require doctors, dentists and medical technicians aged 45 and under to register with draft boards.

If called up, the medical men would serve 21 months. First called would be those who got their training at government expense in World War II, but never served on active duty; next would come those who served less than 21 months; a third group would include doctors who were not trained at government expense, but who served less than 90 days in the armed forces.

The military services — especially the army — have a shortage of qualified physicians.

Wisconsin-Michigan Water Boundaries Marked Along Shore

LANSING — (AP)—The watery "boundary lines" between Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota now are pretty well established by shore markers.

Concrete monuments have been set up on the shores of Lake Michigan and Superior, with the exception of the Michigan side of Lake Michigan, the geological survey division of the conservation department said today.

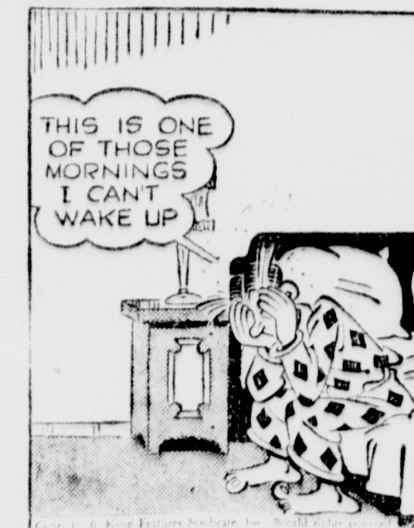

The remaining work, the division noted, will be completed next summer. The construction of the "reference points" is under the guidance of Prof. Jerry Service of Michigan College of Mining and Technology.

The three states, through an interstate boundary commission, agreed on the marking project. It later was ratified by an act of Congress.

Garden Street Policy Is Set

County And Village Officers Meet

The Delta county road commission in special meeting today with officers of the Village of Garden and committeemen of the board of supervisors adopted a policy for future road work to be done in the Village of Garden.

The meeting followed an inquiry by the Delta county board of supervisors concerning road services by the county in the village in the past and the rate of payment for the work.

Present at the meeting were Road Commissioners Harry Greene of Garden and Hilding Norstrom of Gladstone; William Karas, road commission superintendent-engineer; Ulysses Maynard, president, and Charles Gauthier, clerk, of the Village of Garden; and Supervisors Omer Tangway, Charles Sedenquist and Edward LaMotte.

Establish Policy

Policy in future dealings with the village were definitely established by the road commission as follows:

1. The road commission will repair the mile-long center portion of county road 453 within the village under the cooperative program with the village sharing in the cost on the same basis as for road work in the townships.

2. After completion of the above repair work, the section of county road in the village will be abandoned to the village for its maintenance.

3. The road commission will furnish normal road services to the village the same as for other units of the county when requested and on a similar cost basis.

Village Share Cost

At the present time the mile-long 18-foot-wide section of county road through the village is under jurisdiction of the road commission. Before abandonment of that section of road to the village for a street, the county will put it in condition with a blacktop surface.

For this repair and surfacing the village will pay its share of $2,035. It has already deposited a check for $1,000 with the road commission toward that amount. The remainder of the cost, $1,035, will be paid by the county.

The work will be done this summer if weather permits. Road projects have been delayed two to two and one-half weeks because of adverse weather conditions this summer.

Other business of the commission included a decision to have the superintendent-engineer advertise for estimates and bids on a new heating plant boiler for the county garage at Wells.

authority than the $34,688,000,000 recommended by the Senate appropriations committee — not including the $100,000,000 Spanish loan voted Tuesday.

The across-the-board cut sponsored by Senators Bridges (R-NM) and Byrd (D-Va) had the support of more than 30 other Republicans and Democrats. It was aimed at slashing an estimated $800,000,000 from the measure.

The first two amendments up for a vote provided:

1. $61,000,000 for the National Health Institute for Cancer, heart disease, mental and dental health activities. The committee recommended only $15,750,000.

2. $25,000,000 for the maritime board for the immediate reconditioning of more than 100 military ships now tied up at Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf Coast ports.

While the Senate was arguing yesterday about whether the Marshall Plan should be exempted from the Bridges-Byrd economy amendment, Secretary of State Acheson went before the House Armed Services committee to urge speedy approval of another foreign aid request.

It would add $4,000,000,000 to the $1,222,500,000 already authorized by Congress for foreign military aid.

Tourists To Canada Get Peace Stickers From Communists

MONTREAL — (AP)—U. S. tourists to Canada are getting a special but unofficial "peace" welcome—by the Communists.

Autoists from across the border are finding blue and white stickers on their windshields reading: "Welcome to Canada, and take this back to Truman—hands off Korea."

Police have been ordered to arrest anyone seen putting on the stickers.

Congress May Be Forced To Again Control Prices

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — Not virtue alone but political necessity seems likely to persuade Congress to add price and rationing controls to the limited powers over civilian economy requested by President Truman. Congress is being flooded with angry letters on the subject of soaring prices.

Almost more than the military setbacks, the fact of spiraling prices has apparently stirred widespread indignation. Ham-burger at 85 cents a pound and coffee at 90 cents are understandable to everyone, including millions who six weeks ago had never heard of Korea.

The next stage will be new wage demands. No matter what their own convictions, union leaders will have to go along with those demands if the cost of living has increased substantially.

Favor Baruch Proposals

All this explains why Democratic senators ordinarily with the administration bent on the added controls advocated by Bernard M. Baruch, Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and Senator Lister Hill of Alabama are both for the Baruch proposals. Humphrey has received thousands of letters protesting the price increases that press down hardest on teachers, civil servants and people living on pensions and small fixed incomes.

Humphrey says that in the mass of mail and telephone calls, there has not been one protest against the possible imposition of price and wage controls. Even businessmen are urging that action be taken as quickly as possible.

Many of the letter writers refer to the difficulties they underwent in the first months of World War II before effective price and rationing controls were imposed. Some come from persons trying to complete homes in the face of price boosts in material and equipment.

The likelihood is for standby powers which would give the president the power to impose price and wage controls when he felt they were necessary. The pressure from Capitol Hill would be all for immediate use of the powers to roll back prices to the level of June 25 or earlier. On that date, when the Korean attack began, there had already been some inflationary upward push due, in part at least, to a war scare psychology.

Cold or Hot War?

Some in the administration are troubled by a major doubt over use of price and rationing powers—can they be enforced in the present phase which is somewhere between cold and hot war? Thousands of willing volunteers are essential to make a rationing system work. The doubters fear that the same people who are now engaged in hoarding and price gouging would create a black market that would defeat the controls.

Senators concede the difficulties in enforcement. But they quickly add that a really stiff tax program would sop up most of the superfluous purchasing power and make enforcement comparatively easy.

The reaction of the public, or at any rate a large and articulate section of it, in favor of rationing and price control, is one more illustration of how the Korean war has upset the political apple-cart. Political guessing about the November elections were altered completely on June 25.

Most politicians who are candidates today that they are still in the dark. The Republicans intend to go all the way in exploiting the tragic inadequacy of American forces in Korea. They believe the party in power will inevitably take the rap for defeat and retreat.

If Congress gives the president power to control prices and wages and, if thereby the economy is stabilized, it may do much to ease the grumbling at home. At the very least it would encourage the belief that all were being treated alike.

Should this come about, Baruch could properly take the credit. Without his bold call for sufficient powers, backed by his prestige in Congress, such a move would scarcely be even a remote possibility.

In urging the steps he considers essential, Baruch was certainly not thinking of the political future of the Democratic party. President Truman broke with him in the campaign of 1948 when Baruch declined to become chairman of a fund raising committee. Baruch has not visited the White House since then, although he was a frequent visitor prior to that date.

Baruch is convinced that failure to put in adequate controls at once will open the way to an inflationary spiral. Office holders seeking re-election are fearful that people will blame the "ins" for

Guided Missile Bases Approved In Bahamas

NASSAU, Bahamas—(AP)—It's all right now for the United States to go ahead and develop observation stations in the Bahamas for its $75,000,000 guided missile base. The Bahamian House of Assembly passed a bill implementing a treaty signed by the United States and Great Britain calling for joint development of rockets and other long range guided missiles.

The measure provides for the erection of telemetering stations on the Bahama Islands. These use radar and radio equipment for recording the passage of missiles and measuring their speed, altitude and course.

Other technical observation stations will be developed to give the United States a range extending about 5,000 miles over the Atlantic from the guided missile base at Cape Canaveral, near Cocoa, Fla.

Strong Republican Party Needed In War Crisis, Says Hoover

SALT LAKE CITY—(AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover says the Republican party must keep alive its right of constructive criticism during the course of the Korean war.

The former president spoke at a regional conference of western states Republicans.

"A strong Republican party is more needed now than ever as a check and a balance on the administration of this government," Hoover said.

"Today's America has drawn its sword against aggression, and on behalf of the independence of nations. When America draws its sword there is only one way out—that and that is to win our purpose which must be lasting peace."

"The Republican party is giving wholehearted support to the prosecution of this war. But this does not imply that the party surrenders its freedom of constructive criticism nor the vital benefit to the military and political conduct of the war through constructive debate. As a matter of fact, here lies the very preservation of freedom itself."

Los Angeles Gambler Wants Higher Fence To Ward Off Bombs

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Gambler Mickey Cohen has asked zoning authorities for permission to erect a five and one-half foot steel wire fence around his home. Zoning regulations permit only three and one-half foot fences in his neighborhood—Brentwood.

Cohen has had considerable trouble with bomb planters and pranksters. The latter have been tossing firecrackers onto Mickey's lawn. It wasn't a prankster who blew the front of his house away last year, though.

Square Dance Callers Told To Pipe Down

UPLAND, Calif. — (AP) — Upland's sleepless citizens have nothing against square dancing. It's the callers who bother them. Acting city manager Elwin Alder says letters of protest are pouring in from residents who complain that the gents who call the city's square dances should be calling hogs instead.

Alder instructed the callers to tune their microphones down.

Water Safety Advocated By Sportsmen's Club

By George M. Rintamaki
NEWBERRY—Safety on the water, especially on the larger lakes and rivers in Michigan's vacation areas, is developing into a serious problem with the increasing popularity of motor-boating and at least one group of sportsmen has resolved to do something about it.

"The need of educating the users of speedboats to the important fact that the 'rules of the road' apply also to the state's waterways is a pressing one," says Chris Katmo, president of the Tahquamenon Sportsmen's Club, citing growing number of tragic and near-tragic accidents which have occurred in the state's resort and vacation areas in recent years due to careless use of motor-boats.

"It is not only a source of annoyance when a speedboater 'buzzes' bathers or the parked boats of still fishermen, but he may seriously injure a bather he hasn't noticed or he may easily upset a fishing boat with the possibility of a drowning," Katmo points out.

There are well-defined state and federal laws governing the careless use of, motorboats and other craft, but Katmo and his club feel that not enough has been done to educate the public to the importance of safety on the water. The enforcing of existing laws also is usually difficult and dependent on such attention as sheriffs officers and state police and conservation officers can give, says Katmo.

The membership of the Tahquamenon Sportsmen's group is of the opinion that a unified education program on the part of the state's outdoor clubs with appropriate signs posted at strategic points will accomplish the best results.

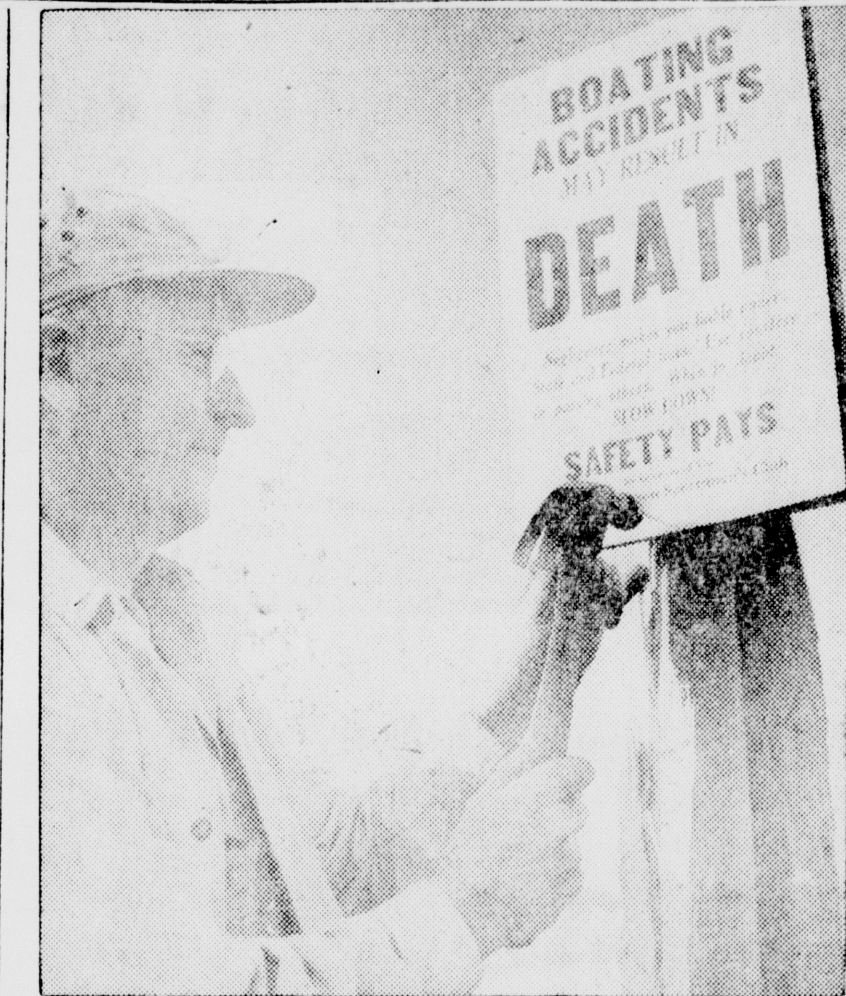

"It is within the functions of our organized sportsmen's groups to undertake projects of this kind," Katmo points out. "We hope our project for 'safety on the water' catches on with other sportsmen. Unified action here will go a long way toward remedying a serious situation."

Sweets Are Cause Of Tooth Decay

MINNEAPOLIS—(AP)—The kind of sweets you eat may make a difference in the amount of tooth decay you have, Drs. H. W. Haggard and Leon A. Greenberg of the Yale University Laboratory of Applied Physiology report. Sweets that cling seem to be the dangerous ones, they write in Dental Survey. The damage is probably slight if the sweets don't stay long in the mouth.

Testing various foods and beverages, they found that peak concentrations of sugar in saliva were reached with caramel candy, orange juice and grapefruit juice. Then came mixed meal, soft drinks, chewing gum, ice cream and crackers.

These were tests of the initial concentration of sugar. How long

WARNING SIGN—Pres. Chris Katmo, of the Tahquamenon Sportsmen's Club, nails up a warning sign at a Luce County lake to caution against the reckless use of speedboats in the club's drive to reduce boating accidents and general careless operation.

the high level of sugar lasts also is important, they said. There were quick drops in sugar concentration 10 minutes after the taking of soft drinks, juices, and chewing gum. Crackers, ice cream, mixed meal, and caramel showed much slower drops, in that order. Brushing teeth five minutes after eating caramel candy dropped the

Male Death Rate High In Italy

ROME—(AP)—Although there are a million more women than men in Italy, the male death rate is higher than the female rate, the official Statistical Institute reports. In 1948, the report said, 247,463 males died compared with 238,090 female deaths. In the first nine months of 1949—the totals were: male deaths, 183,180; female deaths, 177,611.

Lions Circus Is Here Today

Unusual Attractions
Seen Under Bigtop

Gladstone is astir. Mills Bros. Circus, the largest motorized circus in the world, is here, sponsored by the Lions club. A performance this afternoon was witnessed by a large crowd of adults and seemingly all he underprivileged, orphan, poor, and crippled kiddies, in town and roundabout. "Jack" Mills, circus director, has a system that provides the circus for such children free of charge. The verdict of those who witnessed the performance this afternoon: "Wonderful presentation. Marvelous acts from afar, first time in America. Funny clowns, including 'The Bakers,' 'The Mad Hatters' from Old England. Four American clowns possess the Mark Twain and Will Rogers humor—their names: Alex Brock, Jack LaPearl, Bailey and Zoo. There are trained horses and ponies, goats, dogs, monkeys, a black leopard (only one ever known), lions, bears, llamas, pumas, mounted goats, and trick mules. A band second to none, led by Sir Robert Mills. Three rings. Seating capacity 5,000."

A second performance will be given tonight at 8 o'clock, doors opening at 7. This is the only circus that does not exhibit on Sunday. It carries no gambling, the least and unlawful. It maintains a "carnival church." The pastor for life of it is Rev. Doc Waddell, 87 year old Methodist Evangelist. The people here now know he is just what "Coronet Magazine" titled him: "That Peculiar Man of God," and he is being pointed out as the "Only One of the Kind in Captivity."

This morning, in his "carnival church" before most people were out of bed, Rev. Waddell had "church" for his big-top congregation, of 500 souls representing 18 different races of people, and as many religious faiths and beliefs. A "remembrance ceremony" honored his old political and business friends, the late General Russell Alger and Lt. Henry Ford, and his show friends, through many years, the Ringling Brothers and Dode Fisk, who were Wisconsin's greatest circus owners, and all show folk, buried here. Today's performance, Rev. Waddell dedicated to The Escanaba Daily Press, The Gladstone Weekly Reporter, their staffs and employees; J. P. Vogt and the Lions Club, sponsors of the circus in Gladstone today; Wallace Cobb and George Harvey, sr., Escanaba's world-known showmen; Rev. Glenn Kjelberg, Gladstone's Methodist minister; the Shriners and the Eastern Star; Rev. Waddell is a past grand patron of the Star in Ohio.

There was a commotion and brief interruption of the services in the circus church, this morning.

Visitors At Peak

In spite of that fact that rain, mist and sunless days have been the order in this area for the past week, the tourist business is at its peak.

Tuesday was, it would seem, the banner day for the season, for the information center received the largest number of calls on that day of any day of the year. The number of visitors registering at that point while seeking information was 146. This, of course represents but one member to each party in most instances.

The largest number of out-of-state tourists were from Ohio, with Indiana a close second. Ontario residents have also called at the center in considerable numbers, but their quests for the most part were information on places of interest in the community.

Included among Tuesday's guests were three tourists from England. They were Norman J. Pattenden, Rochester, County of Kent; Michael O. Deighton, Cambridge, and Kenneth W. Allen, London.

William Fredericks, C. of C. secretary, who is in charge of the information center, reports that an average of about 90 tourists per day visit the center.

VFW Sponsored
Circus ComingAdvance Purchase
Of Tickets Urged

The Schoolcraft County Post of Veterans of Foreign Wars, in an effort to secure funds to promote a very comprehensive youth program, is sponsoring the Mills Brothers Circus which will show here Saturday afternoon and evening.

Each ticket sold will aid the cause which the VFW is promoting. There is this difference, however, for tickets sold before the circus day, the local post will receive a 50% commission while on circus day the commission will be 10%. For that reason, the post members are anxious to have all who intend to go to the circus buy their tickets well in advance.

Mills Brothers three-ring circus showed here last year under the auspices of the Manistique Lions club and the public is well acquainted with the quality of the show.

This year's show has been enlarged. Besides having an all-new tent equipment with seating accommodations for several thousand spectators, the circus will feature the largest internationally-famous circus stars in history.

Among the acts in the two-hour performances will be the Hanel family of South Africa, gymnastic experts; the Bakers, jugglers; Ray Goody, madcap of the tight wire; the Wallabies, English acrobatic beauties; the Ming Sing Stars, Chinese balancers and contortionists; the Rickers, all-girl Dutch juggling troupe; the Valencianos of Berne, Switzerland, trapeze artists; trained elephants; Miss Evelyn Noel and her fancy headcarry act, and many others.

Wet Pavement
Again Blamed
For Accidents

Two more motor mishaps caused by slippery pavement were investigated by local state police.

Tuesday, a car driven by Merlin G. Lomis, of Lake Orion, skidded on wet paving and rolled over. The car was badly damaged and Lomis was treated for lacerations on his left shoulder. The mishap occurred three miles east of Gulliver.

Wednesday morning, a car driven by Edward Makdelski, of Ann Arbor met a similar fate about three miles west of Blaney Junction. Makdelski was attempting to pass another car and then saw that he couldn't make it and avoid hitting an oncoming car. He applied the brakes and the car got out of control. A fender of the car he was attempting to pass was slightly damaged. The driver escaped injury.

White's Two-Hitter Puts Zing In Detroit Tigers

DETROIT—(AP)—“Let's make it three in a row . . .”

That was the jubilant cry in the Detroit Tigers dressing room yesterday after little Hal White turned in the classic pitching performance of his career, a two-hit 4-0 shutout over the dangerous New York Yankees.

White's brilliant performance marked the second day in succession that a one-time tenant of the Tiger bullpen came through with a nine inning tour of duty to beat the Yankees.

Of Dix Trout turned the trick Tuesday night when he beat the New Yorkers 7-3.

White, a 31-year-old veteran, gave up a single in the third and another in the fourth. Then he slammed the gate shut as only 31 Yankees went to bat against him over the nine inning route.

HAL WHITE

Drove In Big Run

He became the first right-hander to whitewash the Yankees this year. And he added to his own great afternoon by slamming out the first Tiger hit to drive in the first and eventual winning run.

White, making his fourth start of the year, needed all his pitching mastery to edge out the veteran Allie Reynolds, who gave up only six hits.

After White moved the Tigers into a 1-0 lead in the second, the game settled down to an old-fashioned pitching duel until the Tigers broke it up with a three-run seventh inning.

Three hits, a walk and a disastrous throwing error by Reynolds figured in the Tiger outburst.

The Yankees stilled the home run bat of Vic Wertz which had boomed seven times in the previous five games. But to do it they had to walk Vic three times and strike him out on his other appearance.

Detroit was due to call on either Art Houtteman or Teddy Gray to pitch the series windup today, with Ed Lopat going for the Yankees.

Spilling The Dope

By Charlie Larson

What makes Ohio such a black sheep in the world of good sportsmanship?

Ohio State football fans are among the most rabid and unreasonable in the country. Coaches at Ohio State are in a constant turmoil, even when they are producing top teams.

And for years Cleveland Indians have had the reputation of being a bunch of "cry babies."

Now a couple fans in Cleveland come up with one of the "rattiest" things we have seen in a long time.

Steve O'Neill, former Detroit manager now managing Boston Red Sox, complained that the Indians were stealing Boston signals by using spotters in the centerfield scoreboard and equipping them with high powered spy glasses.

It wasn't the first time the charge was made. Jack Onslow, recently deposed Chicago White Sox manager, charged the same thing. He had former Cleveland players on his team and they apparently told him about it.

So the other day, after O'Neill—a mild mannered guy—had protested, he was handed a gift box at a ceremony at home plate before 71,000 persons.

Taking the gift in good faith from two men who said they were citizens of Erie, Pa., O'Neill made a "thank-you" speech before the 70,000 fans.

Imagine his humiliation when he opened the box and found a pair of toy binoculars with a note suggesting that he leave them in Cleveland for future use.

Ellis Ryan, president of the Indians, and Hank Greenberg, general manager, said the "gift" was made without their knowledge. Ryan refused to name the persons involved but said they had been reprimanded.

Reprimand? They ought to be barred for life from seeing a major league baseball game.

Yes, Ohio sports fans are difficult to understand.

Series TV Rights To Top Half Million

NEW YORK—(AP)—The first sale of television for the world series in 1947 brought $65,000. This year, more than $500,000 has already been bid for the 1950 TV rights and the final figure may jump a hundred thousand more.

Add the $175,000 radio rights and you get $675,000 before even figuring the regular gate receipts.

Prior to the 1923 series, a million dollar gate was only a dream. In 1922, for instance, the total was $606,475 for the Giants and Yankees in New York. The following fall, the same teams drew $1,063,815.

The first world series in 1903 brought in all of $50,000.

Now it's getting where TV and radio rights are approaching almost as high a figure as the ticket turnstiles produce. And for a series played in two small parks, the commercial rights could top the ticket sale.

The radio receipts go to the pension fund for major league baseball players. Payment for TV is received by the central baseball fund in the commissioner's office. Commissioner A. B. Chandler negotiated the radio contract from 1945 to 1956. It totals $2,225,000 for the pension fund.

Most active bidders for TV rights on the coming series are two big commercial firms. Chandler's decision will be due Aug. 19.

Since the 1949 series, the nation's TV sets in use have increased from 2,150,000 to 6,214,000.

The coaxial cable currently serves an area with 5,000,000 TV sets, against only 1,750,000 a year ago. Virtually the entire north-east is covered. So it may be conservatively estimated that an unseen audience of 20,000,000—figuring only four watchers to a set—will see the 1950 series without paying at the gate.

Cubs Rated Strong Tourney Contenders

MUSKEGON — (AP)—Five zone winners open play here Friday in the state finals of the annual American Legion junior baseball tournament.

On the basis of earlier competition it appears that Beaudry Post No. 9 of Detroit and Flint's Fisher body nine are the teams to beat. The other three entries, however, were rated strong contenders. They represent Kalamazoo, Muskegon and Escanaba.

Games will be played at Marsh field, home of the Central league Muskegon Clippers, on a double elimination basis.

The tournament will continue through Sunday.

Strong Stephenson Team Plays Bears Here Tonight

Stephenson, Tri-County league team which plays the Bears at the Escanaba city diamond tonight at 6:30, hasn't been exactly pushed around by Bark River, the team which has been giving the Bears plenty to think about.

In the first meeting of the two teams this year, Stephenson hung a 7-5 defeat on the team which now heads the Tri-County league standings. And in the second encounter, Bark River had its hands full before it eked out a 6-5 victory.

If comparative scores mean anything, they would seem to indicate that Escanaba and Stephenson should be pretty evenly matched tonight.

Coaches John Schwalbach and Tom St. Germain will have all three pitchers—Joe Rademacher, Jack Beck and Russ Hiltonen—in shape for duty tonight.

Stephenson has a strong mound staff but is likely to start "Big Red" Atakonis, who pitches for Western Michigan college during the school year.

Irish-Spartan Tickets Vanish

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—(AP)—Notre Dame has no more tickets left for its football game with Michigan State here Oct. 28.

It's the first time in history that has happened in August when the foe has been a mid-western college, university officials said.

There was no public sale of the Notre Dame-MSC tickets. Robert Cahill, ticket manager, said thousands of advance orders came from university alumni, families and students.

Lions' Fullback Is In Quandary

YPSILANTI — (AP)—Fullback John Panelli has spent a lot of cash lately for newspapers trying to learn the answer to his big question.

"It's rumored that I'm to go to the New York Yankees," Panelli said. "But all I know is what I read in the papers or hear on the radio. Personally, I'd like to stay with Detroit."

Last winter the Lions traded fullback Camp Wilson to the Yanks for quarterback Bobby Layne.

Layne is on deck with Detroit, but Wilson is reported to be waiting for the Yanks to phone him to talk contract before budging.

Further, it is reported that if Wilson refuses to join the Yanks, Panelli will be substituted in the deal.

Panelli, however, set his sights on today's full scrimmage Coach Bo McMillin scheduled for his Lions.

"No use sitting on pins and needles," Panelli said. "I've got that fullback job to win."

The Lions dropped five players following a brief line scrimmage yesterday.

Ending short careers with the Lions were John Conti, huge University of Detroit tackle; Jack Masterson of Hillsdale college, also a tackle; guard Jim McDowell of William and Mary and half-backs Stan Russell of Pacific university and Lewis Paul, the latter on leave from the Grand Rapids police department.

Yanks Burned Up On DiMag Yarn

DETROIT — (AP)—The New York Yankees are hopping mad about reports that Joe DiMaggio, star outfielder, is not talking to Manager Casey Stengel.

"Anyone who knows Casey Stengel's reputation as a manager and Joe DiMaggio's reputation as a team player, will realize how ridiculous is any talk of a disagreement between them," said George Weiss, Yankee general manager.

"For this reason the Yankees will not dignify the story by making any further comment on it."

Joe Trimble, New York Daily News baseball writer with the Yankees, reported that DiMaggio is "wearing a cloak of martyrdom" because of his recent removal from the clean-up spot in the batting order. Johnny Mize now hits fourth and DiMaggio fifth.

BEARDON SOLD

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians have sold pitcher Gene Beardon to the Washington Senators for the $10,000 waiver price.

Beardon, who will be 30 next month, was the sensation of the Cleveland pennant drive two years ago, when he won 20 games and lost 7.

Rolfe Takes Chance; It Pays Off

(By The Associated Press)

Maybe Red Rolfe had a hunch about Hal White. Maybe he was just plain desperate with Art Houtteman on the shelf. But hunch, desperation, luck or shot-in-the-dark, the Detroit manager's move was a touch of genius.

White, an obscure refugee from the bullpen, gave the Tigers' pennant hopes a shot in the arm yesterday with a brilliant two-hit shutout of New York, 4-0. That's why the Tigers are two games out front in the American league.

The White of Aug. 2, 1950 finally fulfilled the promise of the "kid from Utica" who blazed a 12-12 record for the Tigers in his rookie year of 1942. But there have been many blank spots in between. Particularly World War II.

The war took something out of Hal. When he came back, he just didn't have it. Four years—four flops. Finally in May of 1949, Rolfe sent White to Toledo — a give-up gesture.

White fought his way back to the majors with a 10-8 record at Toledo. But not as a starter. Last spring, Rolfe had new hopes for White—in the bullpen. However, he got a chance as a starter in late June and early July. After three starts he went back on relief.

Yesterday the 31-year-old right-hander faced only 31 men. Singles by Gene Woodling in the third and Johnny Mize in the fourth marred his no-hit bid.

Despite White's fine effort, the Tigers have no relief. The Yankees, clinging to second place by three percentage points, must be faced again this afternoon. And Cleveland, also two games back, becomes a more serious threat each day.

Larry Doby hit three successive homers for the Indians last night as Bob Lemon won his 17th the easy way—by an 11-0 score over Washington. Lemon, top winner in the majors, hasn't lost since June 20 and now has nine straight victories.

The Boston Red Sox made it 15 out of 16 over the St. Louis Browns, rallying with three in the ninth for a 9-8 edge. Walt Dropo's single, following a two-run double by Vern Stephens, did the job for the Sox.

Elmer Valo hit for the cycle with a single, double, triple and homer for Philadelphia in a 10-3 win over Chicago.

Two Saults Ready For U. P. Golf Meet

SAULT STE. MARIE — The 36th annual Upper Peninsula Golf Association tournament takes on an international flavor with the two Saults acting as co-hosts. Play will begin at the Country Clubs of Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan and Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario on Thursday, Aug. 10 with a 36 hole qualifying round.

Through cooperation of the customs and immigration officials and the United States coast guard, players will be ferried across the St. Mary's river from one course to the other by speed boat.

Much interest is being expressed in the senior division, limited to golfers 40 years of age and older. The senior division will play 18 hole qualifying rounds and 18 holes a day on the following two days of the tourney, instead of the regular 36. To make sure the legs hold up for the entire meet, the 18 hole rounds will be split up with nine holes being played in the morning and nine in the afternoon.

Following registration Wednesday night and Thursday morning, the qualifying rounds will get underway, with the senior division playing 18 holes as we mentioned, and the other golfers shooting 36. Friday will see another 36 holes of competitive golf played, with the 36 hole finals Saturday.

Thirty-six prizes are being offered at this year's tournament. Trophies for all flights plus many merchandise prizes.

A banquet Thursday evening and a dance Friday night will be part of the festivities.

ANNUAL REGATTA

GRAND HAVEN — (AP)—The Western Michigan Yachting association opens competition at Spring lake Friday in its 21st annual regatta. A record of 95 sailboats marks return of the event to Spring lake for the first time in 13 years. More than 400 visiting sailors are expected to participate in races from Friday through Sunday.

Alcoholism Rated Major Public Health Problem

Editor's Note—Because alcoholism is officially recognized as the nation's fourth major health problem, the Escanaba Daily Press today commences a series of educational articles on this disrupting and costly affliction. An understanding of the nature and scope of alcoholism is essential if we are to prevent its increasing toll on our population, particularly among our youth.

This is not a crusade, nor is it in any way to be considered as an attempt to impose upon the rights and privileges of anyone. It is simply a factual approach to a serious medical and social problem which affects every walk of life—the individual afflicted, the family, industry, business, labor, and the community at large.

The series is written by an alcoholic who from his years of disastrous drinking, hospitalizations, contacts with other alcoholics, and an intensive study of the alcoholic problem has presented the important aspects of this menacing illness for the understanding of every citizen in the community—drinker as well as non-drinker.

Prevention begins with understanding. You can help!

By AN ALCOHOLIC

When alcohol becomes the most important factor in the life of any man or woman to the exclusion of all else, we can rightly say that the life of this man or woman has been surrendered to the forces of alcoholic confusion and crisis. Rest assured that such a surrender is not a voluntary one. When a person is unable to control his drinking and it harms himself, his family, friends, employer, or his standing in the community, he is ensnared in the alcoholic trap and needs help desperately, though he himself may be ignorant of the serious situation facing him.

The objective of this series is not to exploit the pros and cons of drinking. No one cares whether you drink or not. This is not a temperance crusade, nor is it to be interpreted as any attempt to invade your private life. What it is, however, is an honest, unprejudiced attempt to present the truth, as known, and inform you of the factors underlying alcoholism so that you can possibly render intelligent guidance and assistance to those who may have a drinking problem and be in danger of becoming social problems, should their drinking continue unarrested and chronic alcoholism result.

Public Health Problem

The U. S. Public Health Service has declared that alcoholism is America's fourth greatest public health problem. This is a declaration of vast significance to every thinking American and it is worthy of serious consideration on the part of all people. As a social menace, alcoholism affects society and its institutions so seriously that no one can well afford to ignore it. A survey of this country's long, unbroken array of divorces, broken homes, hospital records, mental institutions, jails, unemployment rolls and, last but not least, death certificates will conclusively end all doubt as to the major destructive role alcoholism has played in the lives of hundreds of thousands of citizens in this nation alone.

Alcoholism is not confined to any one group of our population, nor does fame or fortune offer any guarantee against it. It cannot be attributed to any single cause for all victims, nor is there any particular course of treatment effective for all alcoholics. Thus, it can be realized that we face no simple challenge in the alcoholic problem. In each instance, alcoholism requires individual diagnosis and treatment.

It is indeed odd that what has been for centuries a source of relief and pleasure to mankind should for some be the liquid means to disaster, if not self-destruction. The majority of people in this nation using some form of alcoholic beverage are able to keep themselves mainly within the limits of moderation. These people, some 60,000,000, do not constitute a part of the alcoholic problem cited by the U. S. Public Health Service. However, a minority of all drinking Americans, about 4,000,000 are classified by officials as excessive drinkers. Of this group, approximately 850,000 are known to be chronic alcoholics.

The estimated number of chronic alcoholics has been arrived at through hospital and court records primarily. However, many people are treated in hospitals for conditions resulting from alcoholism and are not recorded as alcoholics. Others are lucky and escape the court stigma—for a time anyway. Hence, we can reasonably conclude that the true number of alcoholics in the U. S. might well be considerably larger than the 850,000 estimate.

Causes Family Troubles

There are many of us who know some capable, likeable person who drinks too much and cannot stop, thus causing family and economic difficulties. Certainly, that person is worthy of help, and, in most cases, can be helped if treated understandingly and intelligently. Punishment is like adding fuel to the fire—and the fire becomes even more difficult to extinguish. Punishment is a form of revenge which merely aggravates the alcoholic and urges him on to more vicious drinking. Patience, tolerance, humility, sincerity, and a firm kindness are the essential qualities one must apply when dealing with the alcoholic. Unfortunately, these qualities are at a premium and too few persons are possessed of such.

There are some who, being unfamiliar with the alcoholic problem, are inclined to view the alcoholic as a "bum" or worthless drunkard; one who has voluntarily exiled himself or herself to the merited rawness of some skid row; one who should be left alone to sink or swim as Fate might decree. Of course, this attitude merely contributes to the vast misunderstanding already existing. Satisfactory solution to this or any other social problem demands healthy attitudes and unbiased approaches. Every citizen—drinker and non-drinker—plays a vital role in the furtherance of humane, intelligent programs designed to promote and encourage recovery among our many alcoholics worthy of salvage efforts.

Personality Defects

It has been said that "Alcohol alone does not make the alcoholic." Herein lies the clue to consider the "ticking" of the alcoholic's personality equipment. Some underlying personality defects seemingly contribute to the development of alcoholism, and they may be present before one has ever taken the first drink. We mention this because there are some people who have no such personality defects at the outset, yet acquire them over a prolonged period of excessive drinking and become victims of alcoholism. These relationships will be considered in a following article.

That the alcoholic does not stop drinking in spite of the painful experiences of the past, including loss of job, prestige, physical and mental torment, and countless other miseries, should be ample evidence that underlying disorders are literally driving him to drink. No emotionally healthy person does that which will cause him to suffer provided, of course, he is aware that suffering will result from such action. The average alcoholic knows from experience what will happen when he takes that first drink. However, when the compulsion to drink has been set in motion, he cannot resist it. The painful memories of former bouts are insignificant in the light of the pain he suffers at the moment. He must find relief at all costs. For him, alcohol alone can provide that relief.

Alcoholism is a symptom of one's personality illness, just as fever is a symptom of underlying physical illness. The irresistible urge to drink gradually overwhelms the alcoholic victim and he can rarely, if ever, correct or control the urge if left unaided. Medical science agrees that the alcoholic is a sick person, no more worthy of moral blame, ridicule or punishment than one suffering from other bodily or mental ills. The compulsion to drink stems from some personality or emotional defect, or disorder—mild or serious—and it is this defect or disorder which must be treated before we can hope for recovery.

Alcoholic Can Recover

The alcoholic can recover, but he can never be cured. However, his recovery is solely conditioned upon his complete abstinence from all alcoholic beverages. To guide the alcoholic into a life of usefulness and contentment without further need or use of alcohol is the goal of all treatment for alcoholism.

There are many steady drinkers who drink excessively who cannot be considered as uncontrolled drinkers. They are able to regulate their drinking so that it does not seriously interfere with their normal life activities, nor disrupt their realistic views of life. In other words, they do not suffer from any compulsion to drink. However, such a condition today, does not guarantee freedom from alcoholic affliction tomorrow. Heavy drinkers should be on guard lest the symptoms common to uncontrolled drinking suddenly appear.
